Marks makes a few good points, mostly chief among them that science is a human endeavor and is bound to be marred by all the usual human failings.

"Why I Am Not a Scientist" - The Science and Philosophy Forum

Jonathan Marks (2009) "Why I am Not a Scientist: Anthropology and Modern Knowledge." University of California Press, University of California Press. I am finding it interesting because it is a philosophy of science book but written by an anthropologist while a lot of PoS books are either written by philosophers or physicist/chemist types turned philosopher (i.e., Kuhn).
